

Former MEK child soldier re- counts the bitter story of his aunt

Maryam Banoo's heart-breaking story

May 26, 2024

Maryam Banoo Torabi is a member of the MEK, which is known mostly through her brothers. She is the younger sister of Ghorban Ali Torabi and Nade Ali Torabi. Ghorban Ali was a dissident member of the MEK who was killed under the torture of the commanders of the organization, and Nade Ali is a member of the Nejat Society who has been appealing the blood of his brother and the release of his sisters from the bars of the Cult of Rajavi. But today, Maryam Banoo's heart-breaking story is narrated through her nephew, Mohammad Reza Torabi.

Red Notice for MEK leaders, all wanted by Interpol

May 29, 2024

The 13th session of the court hearing the accusations of 104 members of the Mujahedin-e Khalq (MEK), as well as the nature of this organization as a legal entity, was held yesterday Tuesday, May 28th, at the 11th branch of the criminal court of a province of Tehran, presided over by Judge Dehghani.

At the beginning of the court session, Judge Dehghani stated: Considering the completion of the reading of the indictment, the court is hearing the complaints of the plaintiffs by their lawyers.

According to the regulations of Interpol, a Red Notice is a request to law enforcement worldwide to locate and provisionally arrest a person pending extradition, surrender, or similar legal action.

Children Recruited and Exploited by the MEK

May 13, 2024

A large number of children are being trafficked by terrorist and violent extremist groups around the world. The International bodies may believe that this is a new phenomenon but the truth is that the Mujahedin_e Khalq (MEK) began using children in its conflicts at least four decades ago. Amir Yaghmai is one of those children. He reveals how he and about three hundred of MEK's children were brainwashed and recruited by MEK commanders.

Amir Yaghmai, who was under the military training of the MEK at Camp Ashraf in Iraq from the age of 14 to 20, shares a photo of the MEK's headquarters in Auver sur d'Oise in the suburbs of Paris. In the photo, a group of teenagers can be seen who were separated from their mujahid parents in Camp Ashraf a few years ago and were smuggled to Europe. Amir writes in the caption of this post on his X account:

"A photo of "Auver", the main base of Mujahideen in the suburbs of Paris in 1998. The underage children in this photo were all sent to Iraq and Camp Ashraf. They were brought from Germany during the school holidays to be brainwashed and recruited by the Mujahideen. I'm in the middle with a red shirt."

The exploiting of children in armed conflicts is forbidden by international law. According to international law "child" is defined as "every human being below the age of eighteen years."

International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC)

Greetings and Regards,

On behalf of the Nejat Society in Iran, I wish to congratulate the World Red Cross and Red Crescent Day on Wednesday, May8, 2024.

I also request you to remind the responsibility of the government of Albania to comply with the human rights convention of the Council of Europe and ask this government to firstly remove the ban on giving visas to Iranian families of members of the MEK to travel to Albania and secondly open the doors of the camp in Albania to families and the free world

Where is Massoud Rajavi?

Based on Testimonies of Former child soldier,
Ray Torabi

May 5, 2024

Many people ask me about Masoud Rajavi. Mostly whether he is still alive or not. First, I must emphasize that my writings about Mujahedin (MEK) are based on my personal observations and experiences. If I have not seen or heard anything, I will not express it under the title of observation.

Talking about where Rajavi is in the MEK is prohibited. They told us that the Iranian Ministry of Intelligence is looking for this information and anyone who talks about this issue is in line with the Ministry. This issue was a “red border” and we should not have approached it. My writing about this will surely make Rajavi’s dogs rabid.

Atefeh Sebdani: May Day, Child Labor in the MEK

May 1, 2024

A picture that reveals many details... read on.

What is May Day for you?

For me, pure pain. That meant jobs, child labor. When everyone else was free, cozying up and enjoying the warm rays of spring, we were up early accompanied by orders and tasks until it was evening again. And if the sun came out, which it usually did on May 1st, we came home exhausted with burnt noses.

Hamid Orafa and Yaser Akbari Nasab, two suicides on two ends of the MEK

May 19, 2024

Hamid Orafa and Yaser Akbari Nasab were two of child soldiers of the Mujahedin-e Khalq (MEK). Teenagers who were unintentionally involved in the MEK due to the way of thinking of their Mujahed parents. The shared bitter fate of both of these teenagers was self-immolation. Amir Yaghmai, former child soldier of the MEK has recently discussed the cases of Hamid and Yaser who were his friends.

Yaser Akbari Nasab was the son of Morteza Akbari Nasab, one of the high-ranking members of the MEK. He lost his mother in the MEK’s cross-border military operation against Iran, Forough Javidan. Yasser was smuggled to Europe in 1991 along with his brother Musa, his sister Fatemeh and near a thousand of children of the MEK.

A few years later, the 17-year-old Yaser and the 14-year-old Musa were again trafficked to Camp Ashraf in Iraq as child soldiers. Organizational pressures and restrictions, military and ideological training made Yasser complain against the group’s ruling system. Finally, in 2006, he was burned in a fire that it is not known whether he lit it himself or someone lit it for him. Many consider his death a suicide.

MEK's American paid speakers, according to former child soldier

May 25, 2024

Mohammadreza Torabi, a former child soldier of the MEK, again confirmed the previous documents and narratives of Western journalists about the paid speakers of the group by publishing a document of the payment of a large amount of money to an American military general in exchange for a speech on behalf of the MEK.

The testimony of Mohammad Reza Torabi, as a former member of the Cult of Rajavi, who spent 18 years of his adolescence and youth in the cult, is one of the few types of evidence about the financial relations of the MEK from inside the group, considering that based on his testimonies, he was a translator for the political department of the MEK for 7 years.

CEO: I request you to fulfill the main task of the ICRC and provide the possibility of communication between the families and the members inside the MEK camp in Albania.

ON THE EVE OF THE 13TH SESSION OF THE TRIAL COURT OF THE LEADERS OF THE MEK

May 27, 2024

A compromise between witnesses, plaintiffs, researchers, prosecutor's representative and plaintiffs' lawyers After twelve sessions of the trial of the leaders of the Mujahedin-e Khalq (MEK) in Criminal Court No. 1 of Tehran, the thirteenth session of the court will be held soon. During the previous sessions, indictments were presented for the MEK as a legal entity and 114 defendants, all of whom are high-ranking members of the organization. Statements of some eyewitnesses, families of victims of MEK-led terrorist attacks and former members of the organization were heard. In the twelfth session, the intellectual foundations of the MEK and in particular Masoud Rajavi were discussed. In this regard, the plaintiffs' lawyer, Meisam Hakimzadeh Hosseini, cited some documents, books and opinions of researchers. In fact, the previous session was an opportunity to investigate the real identity and main ideology of the MEK, which ultimately led to the violent and sectarian activities of the group.

Whatever the intellectual foundations of the MEK have been, today it has created a record for the group, from which a 700-page indictment has been issued, as well as a huge number of plaintiffs, some of whom are always present at court hearings.

Aldo Solullari to introduce Nejat Society to Albanians

May 18, 2024

Aldo Solullari, Media manager of Nejat Society Albania addressed the audience in a video conference. As an Albanian activist of Nejat Society's office in Albania, he introduced the society, its mission and its activities. Read his recent on-line speech which was in Albanian language, published on Nejat Albania's You Tube account:

Hello friends and well-wishers of the Albanian Nejat Society, better known as the Nejat Albania .

I am happy to convey through this virtual conference the administrative approach of this society, which operates in the framework of the integration of foreign communities in Albania, particularly the Iranian community who have left the MEK camp located near the city of Mane zin Dures.

With continuous social and cultural activities and fairs to share their bitter memories, we try to give them strength to move forward and to tell them that this horror film with the title "MEK" has ended, and that now in our country they can live as free and honest citizens, embracing the law and even claiming the right to citizenship.

With respect

Media manager of Nejat Society Albania,

Aldo Sulollari
